WHEELING: Thursday Morning, Dec. 6, 1860.

We received the President's Message yesterday morning, about 9 o'clock, through the courtesy and promptness of Mr. J. H. Timanus, of the Adams Express. In less than balf an hour our carriers were delivering it in all parts of the city. In this instance, as always heretofore, we were the first to deliver the message, baving adopted the very quickest and most expensive means of placing it before our

The interest manifested to see the document was very great, and the demand for it was fully equal to the supply. Though the message is about what was expected, it is generally thought not to be equal to the great exigencies of the times. Let all read it and judge for themselves.

A project is on foot for the purpose of establishing a great Union paper in Washington city, which is to be the organ of an association of men of wealth, who will remain there during the session, and invite suggestions from patriotic minds in all parts of the Union. The authors of this idea insist that inasmuch as the commercial and industrial intersts have lost nearly a hundred million of dollars since the beginning of this paule, those interests can do nothing better than to assist in the formation of such a combination at that point as will give repose to all classes, and open the way to the adjustment of the impending trouble.

THE friends and sympathizers of Old John Brown, called a meeting at Tremont Temple, Boston, on Monday last, the anniversary of the execution of Brown at Harper's Ferry, with the intention, no doubt, of baving a good time generally .--But in this expectation they were disappointed. The fanatics-Fred Douglas being the principal speaker and actor-were over-ruled and out-voted, and a very different sort of a meeting organized, as will be seen by the preamble and resolutions adopted, and which we subjoin:

WHEREAS, It is fitting upon the occasion of the anniversary of the execution of John Brown, for his piratical and bloody attempt to create an insurrection among the slaves of the State of Virginia, for the people of this Commonwealth to assemble and express their horror of the man and of the principles which led to the foray, there-Resolved .- First, That no virtuous and law-abiding citizen of this Commonwealth ought to countenance, sympathize or hold communion with any man who believes that John Brown and his aiders and abettors in that nefarious enterprise were right in any sense of that word.

Second, That the present perilous juncture in our political affairs, in which our existence as a nation is imperiled, requires of every citizen who loves his country to come forward and express his sense of the value of the Union, alike important to the free labor of the North the slave labor of the world.

Third, That we tender to our brethren in Virginia our warmest thanks for the conservative spirit they have manifested. notwithstanding the unprovoked and lawless attack upon them by John Brown and his associates, acting, if not with the connivance, at least with the sympathy of a few fanatics from the Northern States; and that we hope they will still continue to aid in opposing the fanaticism which is even now attempting to subvert the Constitution and the Union.

Fourth, That the people of this city have submitted too long in allowing irresponsible persons and political demagogues of every description to hold public meetings to disturb the public peace and misrepresent us abroad; that they have become a nuisance, which in self-defence we are determined shall henceforward be

It is stated that many of the leading men of Boston were in attendance at the meeting, and took part in the proceedings.

THERE is a divorce case on trial at Brooklyn, N. Y., which rather beats the Burch contest. Alfred Beardsley, clerk with Solomon & Sou, of New York, married a daughter of Rev. Joseph Law, Methodist clergyman, ten years ago, and has one child by her. They had lived together peaceably, and, it is claimed, happily, until last year, when Beardsley heard for the first time, as long ago as 1855, his wife married another man in New York city, and by a series of deceptions on both maintained two husbands for several months, until she shook off the second. She is described as a very handsome woman, and, it seems, was promenading Broadway in September, 1855, when she met Dr. James Francis Mahon, an old practitioner, and dropped a hundkerchief for him to pick up as the means of an introduction. To the doctor she represented herself as the daughter of Mr. Seymour, a wealthy Nova Scotian, stopping temporarily in the city; she would marry him, but it must be kept secret until she could get her property into her own hands, and she did marry him in December following, a Catholic clergyman in Brooklyn performing the service. They did not live together, for the pretence stated, but she met him often in New York, and then left him altogether, so that he saw her and knew of her no more. The evidence seems to be direct. Mahon swears he married the woman; the priest unqualifiedly identifies her, and declares he formed the service; and parties in New York city testify to having seen them renies the whole and seeks to impeach the wifnessess, alleging that it is either a case of mistaken identity, or a wilful conspiracy although latterly it has modified a good deal its extreme bitterness against the Rewhat it records in the above extract is of whom it speaks. You will observe that the disclosure tallies precisely with what I told you concerning the remarks of Ashmore to Mr. Larrabee. He and his people regarded Mr. Lin-coln's election not as a cause for discolution, but simply as affording a desired occasion, and a long desired one, too, as The paragraph reminds me also of what was let drop by Mr. Pryor to some democats up at Wellsburg, during his visit there, as I was told shortly afterwards, and it was that he regarded Mr. Lincoln as a safe, conservative man, and the fear in the South. I believe that is just now the secret of this whole movement. The fear is that such another favorable time for secesssion will never occur, and if there is time for reflection, that all hopes of a Southern Confederacy will assuredly go under. And this is the reason why the fire-eaters are in a hurry-they want to run the Secession machine through while the high pressure is on. They dread the it, is bound to take place in these South-ern States, now so deeply agitated. A gentleman from the South said to me last night, that in less than three months we bound to see in the extreme States one of the most overwhelming reactions ever seen in any country. The men now plotbut they will reap the whirlwind.

I also find in the Star this paragraph; THE PROBABLE POSITION OF THE BORDER SLAVE STATE properly heard in the emergency, and that the first struggle in the Halls of Congress is to be between them and the Representatives of the cotton-pro-reason why Mr. Caldwell did not get as many votes as some of the other Bell electors was, that the people of certain counties thought he was Senator Caldwell, the Republican. Of course there is nothing in it. It is palpably absurd, from the fact that he got more than several who were elected, and many more than those who, on the same ticket, were defeated. What, pray, reduced their votes?

hour of twelve has come; the House has been called to order; prayers have been said; and Mr. Galusha A. Grow, Chairman of the Committee on Territories, calls up the motion to reconsider the motion whereby his Homestead bill was (at the last session) laid over. The Clerk, on the demand of a member, proceeds to read the general terms of the bill, but is interrupted by the entrance of the President's messenger, Mr. Glossbrenner, (late Sergeant-at-Arms of the House,) who announces a message from the President of the United States. As soon as the announcement is made, Mr. Phelps, of Mo., moves that the further reading of bill be dispensed with, and "that the House do now listen to the message of the President." The Speaker says, "if there be no objection, the reading of the Homestead bill will be dispensed with, and the No. 1 First Quality GOLD CHOP message will be read." There is no objection, and Mr. John W. Forney, Clerk of the House, rises with the portly package in his hands, breaks the State Seal and reads the document. He is an excellent reader, and is heard distinctly everywhere over the house.

The message has been now an hour. acking fifteen minutes, under way, and prices the most profound attention on the part of everybody has been given to it. The part relating to the troubles in the South has been concluded, and silence is broken and the general buzz of talk commences. The pages have brought in copies of the Globe containing the whole document, and it is now being put upon everybody's deak. The interest of the public is satisfied; the Clerk reads on mechanically, no one paying the least attention.

THE last number of the Mobile (Ala.) Tribume says:

It is entirely unnecessary to state here what is already known to every man engaged in business requiring the employment of money, that the South is tottering on the very verge of a financial crisis.— So far the mercantile community has gallantly met the shock, but whether it can weather the gathering storm is quite another affair. Obtaining our information from those presumed to be capable of adging correctly, we do not believe that

It is clear to us that nearly all the Democratic representatives from the cotion States seem bent upon precipitating events as fast as possible, apparently not reasonable, because, even if it were dreading lest a place in the action of South Carolina Territories slave, as to make them free, (they cannot be both at the same time,) thought, will reflect-that if the Constituon her feelings, still it is not only supreme law of the land, but the best true, and exactly portrays the state of human government; and, so reflecting, feeling on the part of the Representatives that she will repeal the obnoxious statutes accede to other concessions: as, that fugitive slaves be paid for, in cases of nonrendition. the carrying of slavery anywhere by im-South Carolina may insist upon this doctrine of implication; and, when we reject it, she may take measures to secode. I hope that, when the first excitement cools, she may think better of this, but I do not confidently expect that she will; she has long been meditating secession.

Ex-Senator Hayne, of South Carolina, baving been nominated for the Convention, has addressed a letter to the Charleston Mercury, from which we extract the following:

"It is now just thirty years since, I edited a newspaper in Columbia, advocating the doctrine of nullification, as expounded by Calhoun and Harner. I am not ed in a political principle or sentiment since that time. In my private judgment, at that time I became convinced that the South alone should govern the South, and ever since I have considered a Southern Confederacy 'a consummation devoutly to be wished.' I opposed separate secession 1851, because I believed then, as I believe now, the time and the occacasion were inopportune. The other Southern States had already signified their acquiescence in that which South Carolina proposed to resent by secssion .recommend then that we 'should teach that disunion was inevitable in the future, and that 'upon the first occasion of general ferment in the South,' South Carolina This paragraph reminds me of some se- should secede, and stand the hazards of

THE UNDERSIGNED beg leave to announce that they have, at considerable expense, cructed a suitable Building, procured a Reliable Transit Instrument, or Telescope, and with the assistance of gentlemen entirely competent, have established a True Meridian for the City of Wheeling.

By this Instrument, observations from the Sun are daily taken, when it passes the meridian, which gives us, with great accuracy, Aparent, or Solar Time from which observations, the true or mean time, that a clock or regulator should indicate, according to the equation of time as laid down in Nautical Alamanaes, for each day of the year, is calculated and obtained.
